The Daniel Wall House is set back on the north side of New Britain Avenue. Large trees surround the house. A long driveway leads up to the west side of the house.
This nineteenth-century vernacular-style building is L-shaped and displays a Victorian-period porch. Its modest appearance is typical of farmhouses in the area. Note the chimney and original window sash.

The information on this house is unclear. It is known that Daniel Wall (d. 1918), a farmer, owned several pieces of real estate on the north side of New Britain Avenue. In 1882 he purchased a 9 acre parcel of land for $439 from the estate of Jeremiah Hill (d. 1882). It is possible that Wall built this house around that time. In 1910 Daniel sold his son John D. a 76 acre tract of land which probably included the house (FLR 77:309). John D. Wall married Margaret Hickey in 1899 and their son, Daniel J. Wall, purchased the house and its 1½ acre lot in 1937 (FLR 87:378). The house remains in the Wall family today.

Although the early history of the Wall family is obscure, the Daniel Wall House contributes to the early development of southwest Farmington.
